HAMPTONS OBSERVATORY

East Hampton, NY 11937 • www.HamptonObservatory.org

Through November 22: While we've missed the peak of the Orionid Meteor Shower, the show is still going on.

November 3rd through December 3rd: The Leonid Meteor Shower is a strong shower, sometimes reaching 100+ meteors per hour. It will peak overnight November 1-18 when the moon will be 23% full. Meteors from this shower are from comet 55P/Tempel-Tuttle.

November 19th - December 24th: The Geminid Meteor Shower is perhaps the strongest of the year and its meteors can be seen before midnight as well as after. It will peak on December 13th - 14th when the moon will be only 1% full.

Thursday, November 30, 7pm, renown meteorologist, Joe Rao, will give a free, virtual talk and answer your questions about the relationship between astronomy, climate and weather. The answers may surprise you! The South Fork Natural History Museum is our co-host. For more info and to register: <https://bit.ly/JoeRaoTalk>

To watch the recordings of any of our previous lectures, you'll find them on our YouTube channel: <http://www.bit.ly/ObservatoryVideos>

NOVEMBER IN THE LIBRARY'S ART GALLERY - GROUP SHOW

"A Common Thread" is a diverse exhibition of work by Lisa Baglivi, William Behrle, Jeanne Fallot, Patricia Feiler and Lee Harned. All five local artists are retired educators who continue to vigorously create art in their own unique way. Together they share a common commitment to inspire, encourage and support each other as well as students, former students and fellow artists. Their enthusiasm is shown by their organization of workshops, exhibitions and active memberships in local arts organizations. The exhibit will include paintings in oil, acrylic and watercolor, pastels, prints, collage and assemblage. An eclectic and fascinating collection of work.

DECEMBER IN THE LIBRARY'S ART GALLERY "A PAIR OF PASTELISTS"

"A Pair of Pastelists" is an exhibition of works in pastel by two friends - Priscilla Lewis and Nancy Willott - who share a love of this unique medium. The ease and immediacy of pastel application and the vibrancy of its colors are sources of inspiration and joy for these two artists, whether painting plein air or in the studio. This collection of works is diverse in style and subject matter, and the artists hope that visitors will find pieces among the collection that speak to them. All are invited to a reception in the Library's Art Gallery on Saturday, December 2nd, from 2-4pm.

"Life is better when our hearts & bodies are warm."

JAKE TYLER'S DOCK, GREENPORT

J.W. Tyler, located on the dock in Greenport, held the Mobil franchise for the East End of Long Island. Each spring, large freighters brought seed potatoes from Prince Edward Island to Greenport for North Fork farmers to plant. The coastal freighters would refuel at J.W. Tyler's for the return trip. The dock later became Claudio's dock.
