a palm branch for her beloved green Tannenbaum. A nurse, she would sing German carols to her Indian patients. When George was 5 the family moved to Scotland, where New Year's Day was the big holiday rather than Christmas. There were many Open House parties with much visiting of neighbors and families. Mutton, scones, short bread, tea and Scotch whiskey were enjoyed. In 1917 the family made another move to Saskatchewan where the Christmas holiday was celebrated in a more traditional fashion. George remembers singing in a Christmas pageant in church. Next, the Borthwicks transferred to Wickenburg, Arizona, today the dude ranch capitol of America. Once again, Christmas was experienced in a tropical setting. Later in his adult years, Rev. Borthwick and his wife Helen served 5 years at the West Tokyo Union Church in Japan. Tokyo is spectacular during the holiday season, but it is all commercial glamour. However, in their international church community, the traditional American Christmas took place. The services were enriched by many church members sharing their own ethnic holiday customs. Today at the Cutchogue Presbyterian manse, the Borthwick's family tree is trimmed with ornaments brought back from their travels.

Two Southold residents celebrated 100th birthdays this year. Congratulations. Here are their recollections as recounted in 1981:

GLADYS MATTHEWS MOTT recalls traveling from Flatbush to Brooklyn by trolley to spend Christmas with relatives at Grandpa Matthews' home. The children slept on mattresses on the floor, and on Christmas morning early, the sliding parlor doors were thrown open and there was the ceiling-high tree with lighted candles! With pails of water, a broom and sponge, three of the men kept fire watch. She recalls getting a new wardrobe for her best-loved doll. The high point of the dinner was the plum pudding with hard sauce. The children had helped mix the hard sauce.

JOHN CHARNEWS remembers his boyhood in Lithuania where the family fasted the day before Christmas. At sundown the table was set with fresh hay covered with a cloth. Nine foods were served including herring, potato soup, bread, nuts, apples, cookies, cakes. Before eating, the family shared the Christmas wafer. No dishes were washed that night. Instead all went for a sleigh ride and then to Midnight Mass. On Christmas Day boys gave hazel nuts to their girl friends.

The feasting continued for three days.

A JUSTICE FINES HIMSELF.

Constable Who Arrested Him Gets Eighty Cents and the Prisoner a Fee for Trying Himself.

ATLANTIC HIGHLANDS, N.J., June 8, 1898

– Justice Ellis was out on his bicycle this afternoon when to avoid a rough stretch in the road he wheeled upon the sidewalk. He met a constable, who arrested him. The Justice availed himself of the law and asked to be taken before the nearest Justice, and indicated himself as that person. The constable conducted the prisoner to the courtroom, where the Justice opened court at once.

The constable swore to the complaint, and the prisoner pleaded guilty and as Justice entered the record in the required form. Justice Ellis then fined himself $1 and costs. The costs are $2.75. Of this amount the constable gets 80 cents and the Justice $1.95.

The prisoner paid himself as Justice the $3.75, of which amount the town got $1 and the constable 80 cents. He then slipped the remainder in his pocket as his fee for trying himself.

OLD TOWN ARTS & CRAFTS GUILD

28265 Main Rd., Cutchogue 11935 • 631-734-6382 • oldtownartsguild.org

Annual Holiday Sales Bigger Than Ever! Local Arts and Crafts Going Strong! Many Long Island shoppers' go-to for handmade gifts, the Old Town Arts & Crafts Guild in Cutchogue, is open for bustling business this season. Closed for much of 2020, the nonprofit's galleries are now open noon to 4pm, Thursday through Monday in their historic home at 28265 Main Road. Select works are also available for purchase online at oldtownartsguild.org.

Now through Dec 23, "Winter Wonderland" Exhibition will be on display in their galleries. It will feature members' take on this seasonal theme rendered in oil, acrylic, and watercolor paintings; and pastel; crafts; pottery; sculpture; photography; metalwork; collage; printmaking; handsewn art; woodworking; jewelry; fiber arts; mixed media; digital art; and wearable art. Free admission daily.

Saturday, Dec 11, 12-4pm, Book Signing, the Guild's newest member, Stacy Dermont, will sign copies of her cookbook and guide to the East End, The Hamptons Kitchen (Norton), which she co-authored with Hillary Davis. This, the best-selling regional cookbook in the Mid-Atlantic States features over 100 North Fork wine and beer pairings alongside its original recipes. Book is $30 and signed copies are available at the Guild from Thurs-Mon from 12-4pm, while supplies last. If you already own a copy, come have it signed for fun!
